THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD .- This great enterprise is beginning again to attract public attention. For some months reasonable doubts were entertained as to the ability of its managers to com ply with the requirements of the Legislature of Texas so as to secure the exclusive right of way across the State of Texas, and the magnificent donations of land and aid in money contemplated by the terms of the charter and the amendment to it. These very doubts produced indifference and hesitation on the part of the subscribers to the stock, and resulted in a delay on their part to pay up the installments due upon their stock. All the trouble that was encountered by the president and directors in pushing forward the work arose from the failure to pay these installments. Prompt and energetic measures were indispensably necessary; liens upon the road had to be given to raise money to pay contractors in order to meet the requirements of the charter and secure the privileges, which, once secured, render this investment the richest and most profitable ever projected.

The only available means left to the president and directors to compel the payment of the unpaid installments were the sale of the forfeited stock, and this mode was resorted to on the 11th of last month; but, as we have already stated, by a resolution of the board of directors, the privilege has been reserved to those subscribers, whose stock was forfeited and sold, to recover it by the payment, within one month from the day of sale, of the installments that are past due and unpaid. The improved and very promising condition of the affairs of the company will furnish a sufficient inducement to such stockholders to avail themselves of this privilege.

The success of the road is now fixed beyond a doubt. The charter has been secured by a full com- knowledged king of the European chess players, to pliance with all its requirements, and the enterprise visit New Orleans and engage in a tilt with him for has become self-sustaining. The completion in running order of the first twenty miles of the road, which was done on the 11th ult., has saved the each move, thirty minutes; Mr. Stanton to have the charter, and seven miles in addition have probably right, if he wishes, to sit twice a day, four hours at been placed in running order ere this, and now the company is entitled to a reservation of six miles in | 000 to cover his expenses in coming to this country width through the public domain, and 5,120 acres of and returning to London. land of the State donation, existing for ninety-nine years from the date of the incorporation. It has also 5,120 acres in addition, under the law granting sixteen sections of land to the mile to railroads, 256 .-000 acres of these lands have been located and surveyed, and are among the finest in the State of Texas. It has also secured the State loan under the law of Texas loaning the school fund to railroad companies. This fund is now in the State Treasury. and ready to be paid out in accordance with the provisions of the law, by which the company is entitled to $6,000 per mile, at six per cent per annum upon the bonds of the company at par,

The rights of the company are fixed. All the conditions of the charter have been complied with, and there are now no restrictions whatever upon its progress, but it may be carried on as rapidly or as English Cracknell biscuit. They are a most delislowly as circumstances may require. If not another mile of the road should be constructed, the rights and franchises of the charter are inalienably vested and cannot be superceded. The means which are thus secured will be sufficient in themselves to enable the Company to proceed with the construction of the road as rapidly as the grade can be made and the materials procured. This result is a subject for the congratulation not only of the stockholders but of the whole South and in fact of the whole commercial world to which railroad communication between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is regarded as a necessity. It cannot fail to prove an immensely profitable investment to the stockholders, and, now that every cloud that for a time hung over its prospects has been removed, its speedy completion may be regarded as certain.

[For the Louisville Journal.] SONNETS.

BY WM. P. BRANNAN The world is full of music. In blest tones An under-song forever greets the ear Of him who hath the delicate sense to hear What fairy-world is voicing to the zones.

What tarry-world is voicing to the zones.

Delicious strains, perchance to thee unknown,

Float by on every osier-swaying breeze,

With echoes from the deep recounding seas,

Where Nereids sing and priceless gems are strown. The eager winds hymn to the listening stars
That pause, enwrapt, in their eternal round,

Then pale and faint with the enchanting sound Till martialed forth by sanguinary Mars. Earth never sleeps: its music-laden breath Whispers alway a song of life and death.

My heart is ever yearning with a love That brooks not of control. Some nameless fair Forever claims my amatory prayer. Were there no mortals 'neath the heavens above-No sentient soul upon the earth save I—

All known delights that charm the sense of sight, Hill, mountain, plain—thy starry beauty night! Fountains and flowers, that glad the earth and sky, Would seize my adoration. Warbling birds, Soaring through space, would thrill my soul with bliss;

The new-born zephyr, ravishing a kiss,
Would whisper to my heart love-breathing words; And ere my loneliness gave way to groans I would bow down and worship stocks and stones. FRANKFORT, January, 1858.

GAS CONSUMERS.—We published a few days ago the statement made by Mr. Robert Prince, of New York, charging that gas meters are intentionally made to register falsely, and that they indicate from ten to fifteen per cent. more gas used than passes through them.

We find in the Brooklyn Eagle a reply to Mr. Prince's statement by manufacturers of gas meters, denying the allegations of Mr. Prince as a "mere exhibition of impotent malice," and "a slander so absurd that no intelligent man could be deceived by it." After describing the several different kinds of meters, the letter concludes as follows:

The process is very simple and easily explained and understood, and if those who have doubts on the subject will call, I will cheerfully give them such evidence as will satisfy them that there is no article of commerce more accurately measured than the gas which is habitually dealt out to them by the companies so unjustly abused.

The Brooklyn Eagle, referring to Prince's statement, says: "From what we can learn on the subject, the statement referred to was unfair and unre-

AFFRAY-Man Cut and Dangerously Wounded .-Last evening a bloody affray occurred between a boss drayman, named Alexander Holliday, and a drayman, named Andrew Sears, in the employ of Daniel Batman, another boss drayman. Sears was loading his dray, when Holliday either asked him to move it or to let his dray come in. This request Sears refused to comply with, when Holliday, who is a powerful man, commenced beating and kicking Sears. The latter stood it for a while, but finally drew his knife and inflicted one severe gash in Holliday's neck and another in his abdomen so that his bowels protruded. Holliday was brought to his residence in the city, and was still alive at 8 o'clock last night. His bowels were not cut. Officer Crofut arrested Sears, who is now in jail.

The Washington correspondent of the Press says that the "Paraguay difficulty is in statu quo waiting for the action of Congress." This intelligence is not entirely satisfactory. During the Crimean war, we remember, a wag or something else, on learning from the public despatches that the allied army was in statu quo, inquired of a friend, making at the time a polite apology for his ignorance of the topography of the seat of war, how far statu quo was from Sevastopol! We are similarly exercised with regard to the present locality of the Paraguay question. We should like exceedingly to know how far statu quo is from a Christian settle-

FROM ST. THOMAS .- Intelligence has been received from St. Thomas to the 17th of February. The American and European money crisis had prostrated trade completely. The old established American house of Ridgway, Ruhl, & Co. had suspended payment. The managing partner, John E. Ruhl, was imprisoned under an old colonial burgher law for the non-payment of a bill of exchange for £6,000, accepted by the house previous to its temporary embarrassment. Owing to the exertions of the United States Consul he was, however, soon released. The harbor was full of vessels, but no freights were to be had. Yellow fever had appeared unusually early.

MOORE'S NEW CRACKNELL BISCUIT .- Messrs. J. M. Moore & Co. have just introduced the celebrated cious article, light as feathers and as rich and melting as butter. Those who try them will always be grateful to our friends Moore and McPherson for affording them an opportunity to procure such delicious articles of food. They will please the palate of an epicure.

Ho! FOR UTAH .- The volunteer company for Utah, gotten up by Lieut. RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river had fallen six inches in the twenty-four hours ending last evening, leaving 6 feet 11 inches water in the canal by the mark and 5 feet on the falls. It was thawing freely yesterday, but last night it was again freezing hard.

The Charcellor was engaged till a late hour last night taking on board from lighters the freight of the David Gibson. She went out with a splendid trip. An accident happened to one of the lighters yesterday morning. It was lying alongside of the Chancellor, when the Tecumseh came out of the canal and ran against it, causing it to spring a leak and commence sinking. All the freight was gotten out of it, but some in a damaged condition. Capt. Stewart entered a protest before Capt. Wales.

The Southerner .- This elegant packet, if found on her arrival this morning to be in good condition, will leave for Memphis this evening. We make this statement as the Fashion was heretofore advertised to take her place. The Southerner connects with the New Orleans packet line. Passengers cannot take passage on a boat that affords finer accommodations or better officers. Mr. Archer, a polite gentleman, has charge of the office.

The Telegraph No. 3 is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day. The steamer Stephen Decatur, which was sunk about Memphis, was so little injured that she proceeded to Paducah by the power of her machinery.

FREE BANKING SECURITIES .- The Legislature of New York has a bill before it prohibiting the deposit of bonds and mortgages as security for bank note circulation, thus making stocks alone a legal basis. The bonds and mortgages on a forced sale, realize, it is said, only about fifty per csnt. of their nominal value, consequently diminishing the security to that degree.

The army of Utah is in a more perilous condition, on account of an anticipated deficiency in supplies, than has been generally supposed. The late prompt and energetic movement of Lieut. Gen. Scott for the relief of the expedition, by sending on supplies immediately, is founded upon a letter from Col. Johnston, dated Jan. 4, in which he urges the vital importance of the measure. The orders given for forwarding a train of over two hundred wagons with provisions, clothing, &c., on the 10th of March, will, if complied with, relieve the expedition by the end of May. Col. Johnston's provisions will hold out till the middle of June, but not beyond. It will, therefore, be seen that if anything should cour to delay the train on the route, even for a few weeks, the whole Utah expedition is in severe straits.

The Senate chamber was the theater of unusual attraction to day. Gov. Hammond, of South Carolina, made a speech upon the subject of the bill for the admission of Kansas. After treating some minor points, the Senator considered the main question which was at the bottom of this agitation—that is, which was at the bottom of the duestion should be slavery.

He thought it proper that the question should be practically considered. He was disposed to see the question settled as soon as possible. He proceeded, therefore, to bring the South and the North face to face, and compare their resources and means for the maintenance of a separate organization. He drew a picture of the vast resources of the South and her ability to sustain herself, as one of the most prosperous and peaceful empires of the world.

How to Grow Early Cucumbers and Melons. J. H. H., of Clark's Mills, Oneida county, N. Y., writes to the Country Gentleman as follows:

J. H. H., of Clark's Mills, Oneida county, N. Y., writes to the Country Gentleman as follows:

Messrs. Editors: You have published in your excellent journal several methods for forcing cucumbers and melons for early use. I have one which I have proved by experience to be a good one, and with your permission I will give it for the benefit of your readers. My first preparation for planting is the making of a good hot-bed, one that will give considerable heat and retain it. I usually plant about the first of March or a little later. I then procure empty oyster kegs, saw them in two, bore a hole in the center of each head for drainage, which I cover with pieces of broken pots or other porous material, and then fill with a fine and rich compost, and plant my seeds in them. I bury my kegs to their rims in the dirt of my hot-bed, when it has become sufficiently warm, and the plants make their appearance in a few days. I am then careful to water as often as is necessary, and keep my frame at such a temperature that my plants will grow stocky and look healthy, not spindling. When my ground is right for transplanting, I make hills two feet in diameter and the same in depth, rich and mellow, and then lift my boxes from the bed, cut their hoops when the staves will readily fall apart, leaving a clear ball of earth and roots, and the latter whole and undisturbed, which I bury in my hills; the plants will grow without check if the work is done with care, and early fruit is the reward. I use the gallon and larger sizes of kegs, as they allow more room for the roots to grow in, and before transplanting I "harden my plants off" and afterwards use boxes around them with a pane of glass in the top. I claim for this method over that of planting upon inverted tur one great advantage, which is this: The roets of my plants are never broken or disturbed, but grow without check; whereas, upon turf the contrary is the case, even with the utmost care. The cost is a trifle, as any one can see, for the kegs can often be had for the asking,

THE BEST DUCKS FOR THE FARMER .- A COFFESpondent of the Country Gentleman says:

pondent of the Country Gentleman says:

According to promise, I now proceed to give our opinion as to what is the best breed of ducks to raise for the market and the table. Were I to attempt to describe all the different breeds of ducks, I should only fail, for their names are legion. Most of them are not profitable to raise for mraket, but can be made profitable to the fancier, besides being ornamental on the pond. For my part, I consider that every gentleman who has ponds and grounds lacks taste if they are not well stocked with aquatic and gallinaceous birds.

The best and largest ducks we know of are the Rouen, Java, and Aylesbury.

1. The Rouen duck, originally from Rouen, France. This duck is of a dark brown plumage; legs and feet a dark dusky red; bill at the base black, tapering down towards the point a dark green, sometimes streaked with yellow; long in the body, with a small neck. The drakes are invariably the color of the wild Mallard drake, having a white ring round the neck; legs and feet a bright red; bill a bright yellow; fiesh darker and higher flavored than the common duck. Very prolific, hardy, and easy to raise; will weigh at full maturity from 18 to 20 pounds a pair.

2. Java duck, originally from Java. Plumage a easy to raise; will weigh at full maturity from 18 to 20 pounds a pair.

2. Java duck, originally from Java. Plumage a glossy black, neck long, round body, legs and feet black, and black bill. Drakes are black, head and neck bordering on a dark green; yellow bill, with bright rad legs and feet. The Java ducks will attain to nearly the same weight as the Rouens—fiesh similar.

3. Aylesbury duck, originally from the town of Aylesbury, England. Plumage a beautiful white, with white bill; legs and feet a bright pink, ornamented in appearance; easy to propagate, producing white downy feathers, white skin, and delicate savory flesh; will weigh from 15 to 18 pounds the pair. Set the eggs under hens, and have them hatch out early. With care you can have large ducks.

KEEPING ICE.—To those who have not a regular ice-house, I wish to say that it is a very easy thing to keep in a wagon house or barn, as recommended in a former volume of the Rural. We have kept it for two seasons past in our wagon house, taking up the floor in one corner and making what you might the floor in one corner and making what you might call a large bin, about nine feet square, extending from the ground up to near the chamber floor, but not quite, leaving room for a free circulation of air above the covering of the ice and the floor overhead.

There was slope enough to the bottom for thorough drainage, which is an important matter, in my opinion, as well as the open space above. We placed in the bottom about a foot thickness of saw dust and turner's shavings, then some loose boards for the turner's shavings, then some loose boards for the ice to rest upon and piled it up in the center, leaving a space all around of fifteen or sixteen in-ches between the ice and the sides of the bin, until we had six two-horse loads in, when we filled in the sides with sawdust and shavings from the planing mill, tramped it down solid, covered the ice well on the top with same material, and had nothing more to do with it till we wanted it for use, which was a very easy matter, having of course left a door or opening from the wagon house into the ice room. We found that to have a plenty of ice during the warm months was a great luxury the first year, and the next almost if not quite a necessity, using it in our dairy freely and in a great many ways about ides with sawdust and shavings from the planing in our dairy freely and in a great many ways about the house. In the field it is a great saving of time, as there will be no need of sending one of the boys after cool water several times a day while the men rest and tell fish stories. Some laborers object to using it, as being injurious; but they will drink ardent spirits when obtainable, even to intoxica-tion, and have no fears at all about their health. We think there is no more danger in drinking ice-water than water without. L. F. CROWELL, Seneca Falls, N. Y., 1858. Rural New Yorker.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 9, 1858.

HEAVY ROBBERY .- The residence of Mr. Joseph Chamberlin was robbed on Monday evening, between five and seven o'clock, of a number of very valuable articles of jewelry, among them a blue enameled lady's watch and chain, several diamond rings, sets of pearls and gold stone, &c. A more full enumeration and description is given in the advertisement. The jewelry was kept in a bureau in a room of the third story. The front door being kept open in the evening, the thief entered the house without being heard while the family were at tea. The thief evidently went to work very leisurely. He pried the bureau open. From the fact that he passed several rooms in the third story, the doors of which were open, it is inferred that he must have known where the jewelry was kept. Mr. Chamberlin offers a reward of $100 for its recovery.

INFORMATION WANTED. - Mrs. Herringen, widow, wishes to obtain information of her son, Adolphus Herringen, a lad 10 or 12 years of age, who left the city some time ago with a gentleman named Coke, whose residence is near Elizabethtown. If this notice should come under his observation, or any one who can give any information of his whereabouts, they will confer a lasting favor on a distressed mother by informing her of it through the postoffice. Mrs. H. resides on Fourteenth street.

Our exchanges, those especially in the Southern part of Kentucky, are requested to notice.

PANORAMA OF THE NEW TESTAMENT .- This stupendous work of art, now on exhibition at Odd Fellows' Hall, is said to be one of the best paintings of the kind ever exhibited in this city. The artist, instead of copying from the productions of the imaginative minds of others, conceived the various scenes of this panorama from a literal reading of the New Testament. Let all go and see it, as it may prove a profitable study.

Free exhibition on Thursday afternoon for the children of the Orphan Asylums.

The Chicago fire department is in a peck of trouble. Some of the companies have struck against the appointment of a gentleman to the office of chief engineer. The disaffected had a grand parade on Saturday. After marching about the city, the police dispersed them, and the authorities took possession of their houses and apparatus.

The following resumé of Mormon affairs past and prospective we find in the Washington States:

THE TWO GOVERNMENTS IN UTAH—Gov. Cumming and Brigham Young—Operations of the Same—Young's Message—Plan of the U.S. Military Movements in Utah.—Intelligence from the Utah expedition and from Salt Lake City has arrived—from the latter to December 21st, and the former to the 25th. We have information of the proceedings of Brigham Young's government, and also of the United States Territorial government, under Gov. Cumming.

Brigham Young has been the legal or defacto Governor of Utah since his appointment by Mr. Fillmore, in 1850. After his term expired he held over, and having expelled all the United States officers from the Territory, his government has for some time been one of absolute despotism.

His original selection for the office inspired the Mormons, both in this country and abroad, with confidence in the belief that they would be permitted by the United Gustes government to maintain their peculiar institutions; and the Mormon community THE TWO GOVERNMENTS IN UTAH-Gov. Cum-confidence in the belief that they would be permitted by the United Busics government to maintain their peculiar institutions; and the Mormon community has accordingly received, since, large accessions to their numbers and strength. Reluctant, of course, to surrender his supremacy, Brigham Young will resort to every means in his power to retain it.

Gov. Cummings having reached|the country, proclaimed his authority, and has established the Territorial government at Fort Scott, under the protection of the United States troops, who accompany him as a posse comitatus. The United States Territorial court has been opened, and a grand jury assembled. Indictments have been found against all the principal Mormon leaders for high treason.

Brigham Young has, on his part, communicated

Brigham Young has, on his part, communicated message to his Legislature, on the 16th of December, wherein he asserts and maintains, for the inhabitants of his community, "the great constitutional right of the governed to officers of their own elec-tion, and local laws of their own enactment." He denounces the military expedition as "a treasona-ble crusade against the peace and rights of the ter-ritory of the United States," and expresses a desire that the United States Government will "reconsider "Its course and retrace its steps."

The Legislative Assembly of Utah re-echo the empire remain unimpaired, and Gov. Cummin sway extends only as far as the range of Col. John ston's rifles.

The United States troops and authorities are all very comfortably quartered at Fort Scott. They have been supplied with salt, and Capt. Marcy is on his march from Santa Fe with ten or fifteen hundred horses and mules, wherewith Col. Johnston will be enabled, some time in the spring, to move to Salt

It may be supposed that Capt. Marcy will reach Fort Scott with his animals, &c., by the 1st of May, or some day soon after. Col. Johnston will then march, without delay, to Salt Lake City, a distance of 110 miles, which separates him from the Zion of the Mormons. Orders have been given to send such a force, as an escort to Cant. Marcy that the Mora force, as an escort to Capt. Marcy, that the Mormon design of cutting him off will be frustrated. The Mormons, through their spies, are informed of all his movements, and they may take measures to intercept him when within one or two hundred miles of Fort Scott.

The success of Col. Johnston's expedition hangs upon this supply of means of transportation. Sup-posing him to be so fortunate as to receive it, he will soon test the disposition and means of the Mormons to resist his entrance into the valley. He will be obliged, as army officers inform us, to pass with the whole train through Echo Canon, a narrow ra-vine between two steep mountains, where the Mor-mons lately had a thousand men. This ravine may easily be obstructed with rocks and trees, rolled down from the mountain side: and the road is so easily be obstructed with rocks and trees, rolled down from the mountain side; and the road is so narrow that all these obstacles must be removed. Col. Johnson will have to clear out this road. This is his chief difficulty, and it is by no means insuperable. It would be only a week's work.

The riflemen, whom he would send forward through the ravine, would keep the Mormons off to a cautious distance. After making this road, he will have but one or more roads, of from two or three miles each, to make. As to Salt Lake City, it is upon an open plain, and has no natural defences.

The population of the Mormons may be accurately stated at sixty or seventy thousand. Their number of fighting men is about six thousand. The population of Salt Lake City is twelve thousand.

ber of fighting men is about six thousand. The population of Salt Lake City is twelve thousand. The Mormons at the city are represented as being in a condition of great destitution. They are suffering for provisions and clothing. The troops are poorly armed. They have no artillery. Their supply of gunpowder is very limited, and they have no material from which to make it.

Supposing the troops now in Kansas to be ordered for Utah, as they will be, and to commence their march from Fort Leavenworth on the 1st of May, they will reach Salt Lake City by the 1st of August, and in time to aid Colonel Johnson in suppressing any insurrection or rebellion that may then exist in Utah.

An article in the Paris Constitutionnel asserts that it was the financial system of France which saved the subjects of the Emperor from the effects of the commercial crisis, the violence of which shook the foundation of credit in all other parts of the world. The writer defies all those who, with such a result before their eyes, might still think of relinquishing the prohibitory and protectionist system of France for the principles of free trade. "Free traders," he says, "must from this time put their banner in their pockets as often as they speak of TURKISH CONTRASTS.—Turkey is rich to over-flowing; the population meek in all the poverty of indolence. The loveliness of every landscape is broken by the most hideous public misery. The climate is fine, for the air is fresh and soft—the climate is line, for the air is fresh and soft—the temperature generally moderate. It is bad because it is both cold and wet, foggy and rainy.

The Turk proverbially loves his ease, yet he lives in the most inconvenient manner. He smokes his chibonque or nargilly on sofas without backs; he uses his knees for writing desk, and the floor for a dinner table. He is fond of visiting his friends in state but has no carriages; his streets are noither. dinner table. He is fond or visiting his friends in state, but has no carriages; his streets are neither named nor numbered. Turks are both clean and dirty. They are always dabbling with water, but they eat with their hands; they heap intolerable garbage before their doors, leave dogs to do the office of scavengers, and allow dead carcases to putrify heapeath the windows of their palaces. They are fice of scavengers, and allow dead carcases to putrify beneath the windows of their palaces. They are both quick and slow in business, for they have few formalities; yet they have always a score of opposing interests in everything. They neglect the most important affairs in endeavoring to satisfy everybody on some occasion; and jump at conclusions, with simplicity and good faith almost affecting upon others.

The Turk's wives are so muffled up that they cannot see where they are walking, and they roll about like barrels, from the length of their dresses and the largeness of their shoes. He veils and imprisons, yet allows them to go where they please unaccompanied. Turks are never seen in public with their wives. On the other hand, they appear to consider ladies as nature's choicest handwork, for they can imagine no present more grateful to the consider ladies as nature's choicest handwork, for they can imagine no present more grateful to the Sultan, on the great festival of the Bairam, than a young maiden. They deny woman any place or influence in society, and, while they refuse them a soul, insist they shall be transported bodily to paradise. In Turkey, a girl seldom brings a portion to her husband; but the husband pays a sum of money to her parents. Turkish women are lively, gossipher restless the measure calm tactium and applies. ing, restless; the men are calm, taciturn, and apathetic. A Turk considers it shameful to look at a lady passing him. He never suffers the name of a wife to pass his lips, and would consider it an insult if you asked after her health. Yet he is a polygamist, and has children by his slaves.

The Ottomen is compassionate and cruel. He mist, and has children by his slaves.

The Ottoman is compassionate and cruel. He will leave a legacy to a horse and support an army of beggars; but he would roast a Christian with a great zest, and bastinados his slaves without a great zest, and bastinados his slaves without a qualm. He is at once splendid and mean. Ostentatious in servants, horses, pipe-sticks, and houses; but his servants are ill-dressed, his horses are worthless, his houses are kept in such bad repair that the rain often comes into his drawing room, and pigeons build in the hall of audience of his sultans. He allways reminds strangers of the Hungarian noble-men, who have but one spur. Nothing about him is complete. A saddle of cloth of gold will be girt about his steed with an old rope; and while the mouth-piece of his pipe may be worth five hundred pounds, the bowl is not worth a half-penny. He is a democrat, though he lives under a government nominally despotic. He is a democrat, because he can hardly understand any real difference of ranks can hardly understand any real difference of ranks in a country. Most governments are supposed to examine affairs with some view to their settlement; at the Porte they are usually investigated with a view of avoiding it. In other countries promotion is slow, and business managed comparatively quickly. In Turkey, business is conducted slowly, and promotion granted quickly. Elsewhere, thanks are usually returned for a present; in Turkey it is customary to thank the receiver. A guest invited to direct is also thenked for coming.

tomary to thank the receiver. A guest invited to dinner is also the bed for coming.

In Turkey, superiors calute inferiors; elsewhere the reverse is the fashion. In Europe, we uncover our heads as a mark of respect; in Turkey, people take off their shoes to show deference. A Turk is brief of speech, and seldom exaggerates; but he is amused by interminable stories, and the most improbable freaks of imagination. He suffers evils without complaint, because he says they are written in the book of fate, and he considers them as part of the scheme of Divine Providence. He has a great contempt for ancestry, and concedes to the descendant of Mahomet no other advantage in life than a green turban. A real Turk cares little for descendant of Mahomet no other advantage in life than a green turban. A real Turk cares little for politics; most of the persons mixed up in political affairs in his country being Greek or of Greek descent. He is brave and sensitive; but he never dreams of a duel, nor have the French been able to taint his mind with their ideas on the subject. I can recall no single instance of a Turk who has committed suicide. He will tell you, indeed, that the hour of his death is written, and that he can neither hasten nor retard it. Persons who are fond of theories usually recoil with instinctive produces. of theories usually recoil with instinctive prudence from all practical tests, and it never occurs to a theoretical Turk to try the soundness of his doctrine with a razor or a pocket-pistol.

CHANGING NAMES IN CALIFORNIA.—Numerous applications have been made to the California Legis-lature for the change of the names of individuals. In approving one of these bills, Gov. Weller indulges in the following argumentum ad hominem:

"The executive, I am sure, can spend his time much more profitably than in examining bills passed to gratify the taste or fancy of men and women in regard to names. As the males in this State far exceed in number the females, it is hoped that this portion of our population will not find it necessary to resort to the Legislature or to the courts in order to resort to the Legislat to change their names."

Traveling on the Plains.—A recent traveler across the plains says one of the most curious objects that attract attention are the bleached buffalo skulls whitening the way-side. Many are the names and bulletins penciled on them; and by continually reading one begins to learn the biography of those in front, and feel an interest and a companionship in their progress. Perhaps we catch up with another train, we all chat together, names drop out. "Oh!" one answers, "I know your name, I read it on a buffalo head three weeks ago; you're from ———, are you not?" Sometimes one reads short camp anecdotes or accidents, such as "Woman shot to-day by her husband taking his gun loaded into the wagon—not expected to recover;" then "Woman shot on Thursday doing well," Traveling on the Plains .- A recent traveler acros

The Women of the Revolution—A Lecture. Matthew Hale Smith delivered the closing lecture of the course at the Lee Avenue Church, Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening. Subject—"The Heroic Women of the Revolution." After some general remarks upon our revolutionary history, the lecturer said he would not detract from anything which had been said of the heroic men of the revolution; but history would not be complete until women took their proper place among the bravest and best in that great struggle. The ravages of war fell not so heavily upon any other class of persons as upon the women. Many of them were from the best families of the old world, nurtured under all the influences of position and wealth; but they knew what would be expected of them in their new home, and were willing to bear their part. These women threw THE WOMEN OF THE REVOLUTION-A LECTURE. were willing to bear their part. These women threw around the struggle of the revolution the charm of home; they wove the banners their husbands or home; they wove the banners their husbands or brothers bore.

He mentioned the case of Widow Anderson, who, in her old age and in her poverty, sent her only son to join the army; Margaret Garburn, who, when her husband fell at Fort Scott, took his place at the guns and served during the campaign; Mrs. Hayward, who was ordered by British officers to have her house illuminated, but by her firmness prevented it, declaring it could only be done by walking over her dead body; Elizabeth Danverse, who rose from her bed, as her quick ear heard the first sound from the guns at Bunker Hill, rushing in her night dress to the quarters of some militia men, who were about sitting down to their refreshments, and crying out, "Why on earth don't you march—don't you hear the guns at Charlestown?" He spoke at considerable length upon the character of the mother of Washington, and upon that of Martha Washington. Abigail Adams claimed a share of attention, and he recited humorously the story of her marriage.

Next to the influence of women in the revolution was that of clergymen. Washington had declared in his letters that if the clergymen had not thrown their influence in its favor the cause would have been ruised. If a wife opnosed her husband joining brothers bore.

He mentioned the case of Widow Anderson, who their influence in its favor the cause would have been ruined. If a wife opposed her husband joining the ranks, the clergyman interfered in favor of him going. If a maiden desired to retain her lover at home, the clergyman declared he would not marry them if he did not go, and nobody else would dare do it. It was customary when a company of men were raised, and were about to march against the were raised, and were about to march against the enemy, to draw up before the house of the "domini" and get his blessing. One of the Boston clergymen had prayed after this fashion: "O Lord! if our enemies will fight, let them have fighting enough. If more troops come over, Lord sink them!" And the congregation responded, "Yea, Lord, let them all be sunk" all be sunk

The lecturer spoke of Catharine Schuyler, who burned over her wheat fields that the grain might not feed the enemies of her country; and of Lucky Knox, wife of Gen. Knox, who left alone her royalist family. Lydia Gates, a young Quaker girl, had saved Washington and his army at White Marsh. Rachel Martin, of South Carolina, had nine children, and seven sons were in the army. He would introduce the name of Mrs. Arnold. Reared in luxurious splendor, she was not fit to be a poor man's wife; and they had been married but a short time when he fell. She set herself up as a leader in dissipation and fashion; and to her influence and extravagance he owed, in great part, his rum. With such a wife as Martha Washington, what, he asked, might not have been expected from Benedict Arnold? After a brief and flattering reference to the women of the present day, the lecturer concluded.

New York Post. The lecturer spoke of Catharine Schuyler, who New York Post.

A SINGULAR PROMISE.—A gentleman of means, a resident of New Hampshire, recently offered to pay the expense of liberally educating a young man, in case the latter should be able to cover the walls of a certain room with defaced postage stamps. What precise object the gentleman had in view in making such a request does not appear. The promise might have been the result of a caprice, which perhaps the benevolent old gentleman suspected might lead to some amusement; or, possibly, he may have had a motive of a more serious character, and have been desirous of forming an opinion of ter, and have been desirous of forming an opinion of the industry of the young man, in order to satisfy himself as to whether he was deserving of the favor which he was ready to bestow on him.

Whatever may have been the motive, it matters not so much as that the promise was made in good faith, and that the young man is now engaged in the accomplishment of his task. As about eighty thousand stamps will be required to cover the entire surface of the walls, it will be seen that he has no small work to perform.

Several young ladies of this city, acquainted with the parties, have volunteered their assistance to the young man. One of them has made a collection of three thousand stamps, another has collected about thirteen hundred, and a third about seven hundred, and they do not intend to relinquish their efforts until the required number of stamps is collected. Boston Courier.

We have been informed that the requisite number of stamps have been collected.

A HAPPY REJOINDER .- While Mr. Collamer was speaking in the Senate on Monday he turned to-ward Senator Benjamin, whose seat is near his, and

"I observe that the Senator from Louisiana is making a suggestion; perhaps it is a very important

Senator Benjamin promptly rose and very Senator Benjamin promptly rose and very courteously apologized for the interruption, and said:
"I did not mean to interrupt the Senator's remarks in the slightest degree. I was merely suggesting to his colleague that his argument might be turned the other way. If he will reflect a moment he will see that we got Louisiana, all slave territory, and they took half of it; and it was not a very unreasonable thing for the South to ask for half of the Mexican acquisitious, that he says were all free." cour-

Mr. Collamer rejoined as follows:

"I have no doubt that the gentleman's ingenuity can turn any argument against any man. The suggestion was more loud, perhaps, than was intended; and I did not know but that the gentleman was somewhat in the condition of the lawyer who kept talking loud after the decision of the judge. The judge told him there was no use of arguing after the decision had been made. He said he was not arguing, he was only cussing the decision." [Laughter.]

A Story for Old Women.—The Newport Spectator says there is a young man in a town of Vermont who cannot speak to his father. Previous to his birth some difference arose between his mother and her husband, and fer a censiderable time she refused to speak to him. The difficulty was subsequently healed; the child was born, and in due time quently healed; the child was born, and in due time began to talk, but when sitting with his father was invariably silent. It continued so till it was five years old, when the father, having exhausted his powers of persuasion, threatened it with punishment for its stubbornness. When the punishment was inflicted, it elicited nothing but sighs and groans, which told but too plainly that the little sufferer was vainly endavoring to speak. All who were present united in the opinion that it was impossible for the child to speak to his father, and time proved their opinion to be correct. At a maturer age its efforts to converse with its parent could only produce bitter sighs and groans. only produce bitter sighs and groans.

For one truly well born and well bred, there is no vulgarity except in the mind.

Tuesday's Proceedings. WASHINGTON, March 9. Senate.—Mr. Mason moved a further considera-tion of the bill for the relief of Commodore Jones.

House.—Resumed the consideration of Mr. Quitvolunteer bill. Mr. Faulkner was opposed to sending volunteers to Utah, and he believed if placed at the disposal of the Executive he wouldn't find occasion to use them. He thought the proposition for the employment of volunteers was dictated by outside pressure ment of volunteers was dictated by outside pressure rather than by convictions of sound military policy. He contended that the employment of volunteers would be appealing to the passions of the country and setting a precedent of carrying death and desolation among our own citizens and prolific of a most disastrous future consequence. The war in Utah was a war against people on account of religion. Whoever engaged in such a war, whether as volunteer or regular, would be guilty of murder. The Executive has plainly said he don't want volunteers. Pending the question, the House went into committee on the diplomatic appropriation bil.

ALBANY, March 8. An Abolition Convention was held here to-day. Rev. Samuel J. May presided. Resolutions adverting to the total abolition of slavery and condemning all other political parties were introduced. The members of the convention were equally divided between males and females, whites and blacks. Wendell Phillips spoke during the afternoon and evening.

A GREAT MEDICINE FOR FEMALES .- Hundreds of stimulants have been invented and sold purporting to be specific in the various diseases and derange-ments to which the delicate form of woman render her subject. The result of all these stimulants has been to impart momentary activity to the nervous system, and false vigor to the muscles; but this relief has been succeeded by a depression and prostration greater than before; and the repeated attempts of invalids to build themselves up by these false renedies have finally ended in destroying what alse remedies have finally ended in destroying false remedies have finally ended in destroying what little vital organization was left. But in using "Bœnhave's Holland Bitters" you will find no such disastrous results. It is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Bœnhave. Under its influence every nerve and muscle receives new strength and vigor, appetite and sleep return, and, finally, perfect health. See advertisement in another column.

THE MONEY MARKET .- Financial matters continue to have a tendency toward greater ease. The head of one of our most prominent banking institutions informed us that they take A No. 1 paper having six months to run, and some even for a longer

1/2 and their selling rate 3/4 prem.

There is a decided tendency for an improvement in uncurrent money. Tennessee was still 3 discount yesterday, but there was a decided inclination to put it down to 21/2 or even 2 discount. South Carolina is about the same. State Bank of Indiana continues at par to 1/2 discount and the Free Banks 1/2 1 discount.

We notice from our Chicago exchanges that the bankers there were selling Eastern exchange at 11/2 and buying it at 3/4 to 1 premium, and their selling rates for gold were 11/2 to 13/4 and their buying rates 1 to 11/4 prem. This will have the effect of improving Illinois currency.

The New York Times, of Friday, says of the money market:

The day has been a remarkably quiet one on money and exchange affairs. The demand for the former is readily supplied both at bank and by priviate lenders at the moderate rates of interest quoted for some weeks past—56.7 eent. at call; 6.7c % cent. for short bills, and 7.69 % cent. for bills beyond bank rule.

The Baltimore Patriot, of Friday evening, has the following:

The money market presents no special change. Business paper is increasing somewhat and capital accumulates, seeking sound investment. The banks discount most of the legitimate paper offered. Specie is still increasing in the banks generally. The last weekly statement in New York shows the banks of that city to have in their vaults $31,55,694; Boston $7,316.800; Philadelphia $4,992,926; New Orleans $11,055,597; Pitteburg $1,300,108.

The exports of specie are moderate. The last steamer took out to England about $80,000, whilst a recent report from California reached $1,600,000 in treasure.

The exports of specie from New York to foreign ports for the month of February reached in all $7,920,507, whilst those of the preceding month—January of 185—were $9,943,044.

The imports of specie into New York during February, $185,000,000;

The imports of specie into New York during February, 1858, were $5,840,256.

Speaking of the value of imports for the fiscal year the New York Courier says:

"It may be safely estimated now, we think, the import for the fiscal year will not exceed $175,000,000., or about fifty millions less than the year previous."

Business generally remains quiet, but the prospects of its epening hopefully in a few weeks are encouraging.

| From this morning's Journal.] XXXVTH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION. Monday's Proceedings-Concluded. WASHINGTON, March 8.

Senate .- Mr. Doolittle referred to the extraordinary statement of the Senator from South Carolina, charging the north with breaking plighted faith and plundering the South by means of national banks and tariffs. It was not the North that repudiated the compact of 1787 or the compromise of 1820. As to national banks and tariffs, he showed from the record that the greatest statesman of the South Mr. Colhattonal banks and tarins, he showed from the record that the greatest statesman of the South, Mr. Calhoun, supported the very tariff that he (Hammond) complained of; that he voted for a national bank and supported internal improvements. Referring to Mr. Hammond's estimate relative to the resources of the North and South, he said that the hog crop of the United States surpassed the whole cotton crop of the United States surpassed the whole cotton crop of the South in value; and to the taunt that Northern laborers were slaves, he stated that his own father was a laborer, and other gentlemen on that floor stood in the same category, and asked if he and they were to be branded as the sons of slaves? He then passed to Kansas, showing the inconsistency of the advocates of the Lecompton constitution. The President bases the legality of that constitution on the Kansas-Nebraska act. Mr. Hammond takes a different ground, contending that the sovereignty of Kansas is vested in the sovereignty of the States, to be exercised by Congress alone. The Senator from Tennessee places it in the people of Kansas, independent of the Territorial Legislature and independent of an enabling act; while the Senator from Georgia asserts it to be in the Territorial Legislature. He (Doolittle) contended that if sovereignty resided in the people, the Topeka constitution is a legal instrument. the United States surpassed the whole cotton crop of in numerous cases they could not vote in consequence of several counties being disfranchised; also, that they had been solemnly assured the constitution that they had been solemnly assured the constitution would be inbmitted for the approval of the people. This assurance was given by Calhoun himself, as well as by Buchanan in his messages and through his chosen organs, Walker and Stanton. He denied the correctness of the President's assertion that when the slavery clause was submitted all was done that was necessary. There were also many other questions—that of the banks and the Know-Nothing clause which required the Governor to be a different production.

questions—that of the banks and the Know-Nothing clause which required the Governor to be a citizen for 20 years, &c. He further denied that the slavery clause was fairly submitted.

He sketched the current events since it was first proposed to repeal the Missouri Compromise, instancing the Atchison meetings in Missouri which passed resolutions that Missouri would extend her institutions over Kansas at whatever cost of blood institutions over Kansas at whatever cost of blood, and contending that these meetings as well as Le-compton itself were the direct fruits of that moeal. The programme of these meetings was carried out in full. Missourians with bowie-knives and revolvers invaded Kansas, usurped the Legislature in three short weeks, and enacted the whole code of Missouri. There stands the appalling fact, and no shame is wide enough to cover it. One more act enly is wanting: pass this act, and history will declare that in the same year when Russia emancipated her slaves republican America, trampling upon her principles of independence, imposes slavery upon her Territories.

Senate received the House printing bill. Mr. Foster said he would never assent to another State north of 36 40 entering the Union with slavery. He considered himself bound by the Ordinance of "87," and would never recognize its repeal. Referring to the 7th article of the Lecompton peal. Referring to the 7th article of the Lecompton constitution asserting the right of property in slaves, he said the principle it enunciated was a reproach to the age. It would have been outrageous to have incorporated such a principle even in a constitution made for a Southern State. He alluded to the clause in the "bill of rights" declaring no free negro shall live in the territory, and thought it a strange clause to exist in a republican constitution.

Mr. Green reminded him that the same provision exists in the Toreka constitution.

Mr. Green reminded him that the same provision exists in the Topeka constitution.

Mr. Foster was not advised that the Topeko constitution had been received by the Senate and didn't believe it contained such a clause. There is no question, he continued, that by the Lecompton constitution free negroes must be killed.

Mr. Green asked if the Senator contended that free negroes entering free States having provisions forbidding them, as Illinois for instance, must be killed?

Mr. Foster replied that the Lecompton constitution says as much. It says no freeman can be exiled and no free negro can live there.

Mr. Green—The Senator's argument is absurd.

Mr. Trumbell explained that the laws of Illinois provide for free negroes. It was not in the constitution, the law disposes of them.

Mr. Green—How?
Mr. Trumbull—Hires him out.
Mr. Green—Kansas will do the seme.
Mr. Foster proceeded, reading the clause for changing the constitution, contending that the direct meaning is, that the people may alter anything but the slavery clause. Slavery is to be perpetual.

Establish that constitution and it can never be abolished except by consent of every slaveholder in the State.

the State.

Mr. Mason asked if the Senator understood that Congress has power to look into State constitutions with the view of determining the relations of persons held in servitude? He asked for information as to e Senator's views.

Mr. Foster explained that if a Territory have

Mr. Foster explained that if a Territory have within itself principles at war with principles of liberty, Congress had the right to reject it.

Mr. Mason said the reply threw a flood of light upon the principles actuating the Republican party. If he understood the Senator, Congress had power to declare whether governments were republican in form—if it established slavery it is not republican. Mr. Foster did not think his language susceptible of such an inference. He repeated, where a Territory applied for admission with a constitution at war with the plainest principles of liberty, he could not with the plainest principles of liberty, he could not call it republican in form, and would not admit it.

Mr. Mason—Not republican?

Mr. Foster—Not republican because not recognizing the principles of freedom. He was not prepared to go to the extreme extent that a State may be excluded on the ground along that it recognized excluded on the ground alone that it recognized slavery. Mr. Foster concluded by saying he would not vote for the bill, considered it an atrocious high handed act of usurpation to imprison the people of Kansas. It was outrageous, infamous. The people of Kansas repudiate it, scorn its very name, its principles, its origin—and so do I.

The Senate then went into Executive session.

House.—Mr. Taylor continued: No court of a foreign country had a right to condemn an American weed for a failure to carry lights in the absence of vessel for a failure to carry lights, in the absence of American law requiring such practice. The act of France was an attack upon our sovereignty and an infringement of the law of nations. He thought that on account of the important principles involved, immediate steps should be taken by our Government relative to the matter-referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

The bill passed appropriating $340,000 to pay the deficiency printing bill of the 33d and 34th Conachicency printing bill of the 33d and 34th Congresses.

The House then took up the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill.

Mr. Bocock replied to Mr. Wilson, contending the legitimate construction of the Kansas-Nebraska act did not encourage territorial sovereignty and that Lecompton was the work of the people of Kansas.

Mr. Davis criticised the President's special message and denounced the Lecompton constitution as the creature of fraud and the legitimate fruits of slavery. Adjourned. slavery. Adjourned.

CATARRH IN NEAT CATTLE, ALIAS HORN AIL Georgia asserts it to be in the Territorial Legislature. He (Doolittle) contended that if sovereightly resided in the people, the Topeka constitution is a legal instrument.

He then examined the claims of the Topeka and Lecompton constitutions, contending that the latter was invalid because the Kansas-Nebraska act conferred no power to call a convention, while the former grew out of revolutionary appeals to the people themselves and was perfectly legal. The answer to the question, "Why didn't the free State men of Kansas, if in the majority, vote for delegates to the convention?" he showed by many familiar facts that in numerous cases they could not vote in conservations. and salt, which certainly has a tenden duce rather than cure the disease. Did these persons possess any knowledge of the structure and function of the parts they treat in this manner, or the diseases with which that of the horn co-exists, they would readily observe the absurdity of their proceed as medical.

they would readily observe the absurdity of their supposed remedies.

The internal or osseous structure of the horn is a continuation or prolongation of the frontal sinuses, the same in structure and function, and therefore liable to the same diseases. In catarrh, for instance, altered temperature of the horn is one of the symptoms which characterizes its existence, and when this disease assumes a chronic form, the secretions of the cells of the horn become vitiated and exhausted, and therefore, upon boring into the horn, its cells may be found empty. If, however, the gimlet should strike one of the walls of the cells, instead of the cavity, the operator (fortunately for the poor beast) concludes it is not a case of "Horn Ail."

It is not necessary, however, that an animal should have catarrh for these cells in the horn to become hollow or empty. In any other disease existing for nave catarra for these cells in the norn to become hollow or empty. In any other disease existing for a sufficient length of time to produce debility and emaciation, we shall find absorption to have taken place of nearly all soft or cellular tissues of the body, including those of the horn.

We therefore find the "Horn Ail" to be a sympathetic and not an idiopathic form of disease.

The cayes of catarrh in part cattle the serve or in thetic and not an idiopathic form of disease.

The cause of catarrh in neat cattle, the same as in all other animals, is most frequently sudden changes of temperature. The symptoms by which we diagnose it are, accelerated pulse and respiration, loss of spirits and appetite, hanging down of the head, sneezing, or blowing of the nose, increased thirst and variable heat of the base of the horns, tears running from the eyes, discharge from the nose, varying in the different stages of the disease; first of a pale vellow color, afterwards it becomes more murying in the different stages of the disease; first of a pale yellow color, afterwards it becomes more mucous or cream-like, and at all stages of the disease is accompanied more or less by a cough. Therefore, in treating this symptom of disease, "Horn Ail," it behooves us to carefully ascertain its true character, that we may thereby adapt our remedies to the cure of cause as well as effect.

It is a toe company practice of covers of peat cat.

of cause as well as effect.

It is a too common practice of owners of neat cattle to dose them when sick, regardless of what the disease may be, with heterogenous compounds, the virtue of which they know but little. And it is not unfrequently the case, that, the animal becoming worse instead of better under the treatment, a vetering worse was called upon who upon examining worse instead of better under the treatment, a veter-inary surgeon is called upon, who, upon examining his patient, finds it difficult between the signs of the disease and those produced by the remedies that have been employed to form a correct diagnosis of the case, and not unfrequently that the administration has so impaired the functions of the stomach as to render it unsusceptible to the proper remedies, and, although he exerts his best skill, should he fail of a cure, he rarely gets credit for his good intent.

I must confess, however, that this is not as frequently the case, now as heretofore, the people generally appreciating more and more the value of our art—calling our attention to cases in the earlier stages of disease than formerly, thereby saving the art—calling our attention to cases in the earlier stages of disease than formerly, thereby saving the life of many a valuable animal, that would otherwise by delay be lost. I think I may safely say, where one animal dies in this city and vicinity, at this time, there were 10, 12, or 15 years ago, I do not boast of skill in saying this; but in illustration of the growing confidence in, and the better opinion of the people of our art, they finding it better policy to call a physician ten times when his council proves they did not need him, than to neglect to call him once when they did need him. Besides, this is one of the means of insurance, as few animals die, when their ills are properly treated and in due seawhen their ills are properly treated and in due sea son, compared to the number that die, when they are improperly treated or neglected, and their dis eases allowed to go on to a sub-acute or chronic stage.—Vetermary Journal.

FROM KANSAS.

[Special Dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette.] Quindaro, Kansas, Feb. 26.

The latest intelligence from Ft. Scott is that G. W. Clark, at the head of 130 Missourians, has possession of the town, and they declare that they will destroy every free State settlement in that vicinity. Upon the request of the people there, about a hundred stand of arms and several men have been sent deven from here.

Col. Leonhardt has gone down to take command of the free State forces.

As there are now three or four companies of U.S. troops there, it is probable that hostilities may be suspended for the present, but it would not be surprising at any time to hear them break out afresh and involve the whole Territory.

There is an immense amount of caucusing for the constitutional convention going on.

The great steamship Leviathan is expected to arrive in Portland in June next, and will remain

A CARD. We would respectfully call the attention of the public to a MARINE CHRONOMETER placed in our window, showing the exact time. It is continued.

Fair in New York, and in every instance has received the highest premium for unequalled workmanship and correct time-keeping.

To our watch department we have secured the services of Mr. Ed. Helwig, of New York. Mr. H. can execute any kind of watch-work fully equal to Jurgensen, Frodsham, Adams, or any of the first London or Swiss makers.

In many fine Watches that are broken, parts are substituted greatly inferior to the original, the customer paying the full price for a perfect piece of work. The Watch apparently performs well afterward for a while, but is more imperfect and less valuable than originally.
